

Boisy Gets Her Skin Moist

Boisy the pig liked to keep her pink skin moist. “Oink! Oink!” Boisy would say, and the farmer would rub oil on her skin. Boisy loved the oil. It made her skin so moist.

One day Boisy’s skin was very dry. “Oink! Oink!” she called to the farmer. But no matter how noisy she was, the farmer did not come. The farmer was too busy milking the cows.

There were not many ways for a pig to get moist. Boisy knew mud was a good way to get moist, but she avoided the mud. Boisy did not like to spoil her pink skin with yucky mud.

Boisy went into the barn and watched the farmer milk the cows. This gave Boisy a new idea. She pointed her snout at the bucket of milk and tipped it onto herself. Soon she was covered with milk, and her skin was nice and moist.
