

The Special Guest

Each week Mrs. Rollins invited a special guest to visit the classroom. One week Billy's mom, who is a florist, came in and showed the class how to arrange flowers. Another week Nelly's dad, who is a soloist in a band, came in and sang some songs. A dentist showed the children how to take care of their teeth, and an artist showed them how to draw dinosaurs.

"Mandy, do you think your dad might like to come and be our next special guest?" asked Mrs. Rollins.

"I am not sure," said Mandy. "He is very busy. He does something special with tourists who are visiting our town."

"That sounds interesting!" said Mrs. Rollins. "See what he says!"

Mandy's dad was happy to be a guest. He showed up the next week with quite a surprise. Everyone went out to the playground to see it. There was a huge balloon with a basket.

"Hi, everyone! I am a balloonist. Who wants a ride in my balloon?"

"Hooray!" cried all the kids.
"This is the BEST special guest!"
